We do realize that building and securing the future of the planet requires changes in the way we live and do business.

I have always believed in a business model based on a certain set of values that are essential to me and on a notion of fashion that is capable of creating value and fostering employment. We are aware of our privileged position, and with privilege comes responsibility.

OUR COMMITMENT TO SUSTAINABILITY

In 2022, the Group strengthened the integration of sustainability issues into its corporate strategy and promoted the planning process around three priority areas of action, in line with the Sustainable Development Goals identified by the United Nations: People, Planet and Prosperity.

For each of the three areas, specific qualitative and quantitative improvements were identified and planned, in line with the results of the materiality analysis and based on an approach that covers the entire value chain. These improvements are summarised in the Group’s 2019-2030 Sustainability Plan. In line with its less is more strategy and philosophy, the Group has defined concrete objectives along the entire value chain and implemented a series of targeted actions to achieve them.

With this document, which is a summary of the Group’s Sustainability Report1, we aim to share our actions and progress made to achieve our sustainability goals.

THE MATERIALITY ANALYSIS

Every two years, the Armani Group conducts a materiality analysis to identify sustainability issues in the People, Planet and Prosperity areas that are relevant to the Group and its stakeholders.

On these issues, defined as material, the Group focuses its commitment and defines its sustainability objectives. In 2022, the Group’s employees and key external stakeholder categories assessed the materiality of sustainability issues through an online questionnaire. The materiality matrix below shows the results of the assessment conducted in 2022: the topics on the top right are considered the most relevant.

In 2023, in view of the next update of the materiality analysis scheduled for 2024, the Armani Group involved all categories of stakeholders globally to collect feedback with respect to the outcomes of the previous analysis and potential issues to be taken into account for the next materiality analysis.

This engagement activity involved sending an online questionnaire to about 1,300 Group stakeholders and allowed both to strengthen sustainability awareness and culture and to consolidate stakeholder relations.

90% of the stakeholders who responded to the questionnaire confirm that the material issues identified last year are priorities for the Armani Group.

BRANDS, CHOICE OF RAW MATERIALS, AND PRODUCTION PROCESSES

To combat climate change, the Armani Group intensified its research into materials with a lower environmental impact: there are several initiatives involving all the Group’s brands, the main focus of which is the selection and use of recycled or regenerated secondary raw materials and organically grown materials.

- Emporio Armani Sustainable Capsule Fall Winter 2022/23 collection with an upcycling project with social impact in collaboration with Cooperativa Alice

In 2022, the Group also refined the Sustainability Requirements for Materials and Processes: guidelines that provide instructions for each type of material and are a reference for internal departments - from styling, research and development to production and merchandising - and suppliers.

12. Standard for the correct formulation of an organisation’s self-declared environmental claims.
RELATIONS WITH THE SUPPLY CHAIN

The application of increasingly sustainable production models is an essential reference point in the development of the ESG culture monitoring and promotion activities that the Group undertakes with its suppliers to create mutual and shared benefits.

In 2022, the Group carried out a social and environmental risk mapping analysis of suppliers to identify ESG monitoring priorities in the value chain.

MAIN GEOGRAPHICAL AREAS OF SUPPLIERS

The Sustainability Code for Suppliers, drawn up in 2021 and updated on a regular basis, aims to provide suppliers with guidelines on limiting their environmental impact - from the sourcing of materials to their use - and on respecting the human rights and working conditions of the personnel employed throughout the entire value chain.

Every year, the Group carries out social and environmental audits on a sample of suppliers. In 2022 the Group included in its monitoring activities the analysis of salary data (Living Wage), also thanks to its membership of the WageIndicator Foundation, a non-profit organisation whose mission is to ensure greater labour market transparency worldwide.

In 2022, the Group also joined the International Accord for Health and Safety in the Textile and Garment Industry, an accord that promotes workplace safety in the textile industry.
